Holding up crowds

ETIENNE RANGER/FOR METRO OTTAWA

Hundreds of people gather on Sparks Street yesterday to watch Australian buskers "Sophie and Jake" perform acrobatics during the opening day of the Ottawa Buskerfest. The festival continues through the long weekend with a variety of acts, including fire-eaters, dancers, acrobats and jugglers.

Sewage spill could cost city millions

Law allows fines up to $6M daily

TIM WIECLAWSKI
tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

A nearly two-week dump of raw sewage into the Ottawa River has the potential to cost the city up to $72 million in fines after the Environment Ministry laid charges yesterday.

The law allows for fines of between $25,000 and $6 million per day for each of the 12 days in August 2006 that a jammed gate at the Robert O. Pickard Environmental Centre allowed raw sewage to spill into the river, according to John Steele, with the Ministry of the Environment.

Yesterday, the MoE laid two charges under the Ontario Water Resources Act against the city, following its investigation into the unreported discharge of nearly a billion litres of raw sewage.

"There's two counts — one for allegedly causing or allowing the discharge of a substance that may impair the quality of the water, and one count of allegedly failing to notify the ministry on Aug. 15, 2006 of the discharge," said Steele.

Meredith Brown, the Ottawa Riverkeeper, said she was "pleased" by the charges. "The city must be held accountable for spilling such huge amounts of raw sewage into the Ottawa River. You spill, you pay... that's how it should be, even if you are a cash-strapped municipality."

On the low end, fines could cost the city $300,000. But the act allows for penalties as high as $6 million for each day of the spill.

The spill resulted in no-swim advisories being issued at Petrie Island Beach — downstream of the site — for 45 days that summer. At the time, no one could explain why bacteria counts were so high at Petrie since the spill was not reported to council or the ministry until May 2008, when councillors inadvertently learned about it during a tour of the plant.

Auditor General Alain Lalonde, city manager Kent Kirkpatrick and Environment Canada have launched separate investigations. A city employee was fired for allegedly failing to report the spill.

Mayor Larry O'Brien called the MoE charges "expected."

"Our wastewater division is engaged in remediation efforts to prevent this type of incident from happening again," said O'Brien.

Court date

- The city's first court appearance is set for Sept. 11.

Bus riders recall horrific beheading

ATTACK Passengers aboard a Greyhound bus to Winnipeg from Edmonton yesterday recounted horrific scene of a man stabbing another rider repeatedly before cutting his head off.

Garnet Caton said he was riding directly in front of the victim Wednesday evening. The man, described as a native male around 19 years old, was sleeping with headphones on. Caton said he heard a "blood-curdling scream," and turned to see the attacker gouging him with a knife.

"He must have stabbed him 50 times or 60 times," Caton said.

"Like, just everywhere, arms, legs, neck, chest, guts, wherever he could swing it, he got it," said Cody Olmstead, another passenger who witnessed the attack.

The 37 passengers aboard the bus stampeded for the door.

Caton, the bus driver and a trucker who stopped to help re-entered the bus to see if the man was alive.

"It was visible at the end of the bus he was cutting the guy's head off," Caton said.

The attacker slashed at the men with the knife as they ran outside, and they were able to barricade the doors so he couldn't escape.

"While we were watching the door, he calmly walks up to the front with the head in his hand and the knife and just calmly stares at us and drops the head right in front of us," Caton said.

RCMP arrested a 40-year-old man when he tried to jump out a window of the bus.

Via station upgrade for Ottawa

RAIL Ottawa's train station is getting an upgrade.

As part of a $25-million improvement to the rail lines between Ottawa and Montreal, Via Rail announced yesterday it will be modernizing the city's station.

Along with technological and environmental improvements, the layout of the washrooms, ticket office, baggage operations and the Panorama Via 1 lounge will be expanded to accommodate more first-class passengers.

Work on the $500,000 project will begin shortly and is expected to be completed by the fall.

Murder charges laid in Gatineau deaths

Man arrested Wednesday now accused of double slaying

TRACEY TONG
tracey.tong@metronews.ca

Residents of a quiet Gatineau apartment complex were shocked to hear that one of their neighbours now faces two first-degree murder charges in the strangling deaths of two female residents.

Police yesterday identified Patrick Lalonde, 35, as the man arrested and now charged in the killings of Johan Ayotte, 53, and Diane Johanette, 64. Lalonde appeared in court yesterday.

A tenant who has lived in the 10-unit complex at 267 de Malartic Street for the past five years described the building and the neighbourhood as peaceful.

"It's shocking," Raymond McCarthy said in French. He knew the two victims casually and described them as nice people.

Ayotte was found dead in her apartment on Wednesday, while her friend, Johanette, was found dead in her Unit 7 apartment less than a day later.

Yesterday, police revealed both women had been strangled.

McCarthy also knew the suspect, saying the man had lived alone in Unit 9 of the building for two years and was not working at the time of the incident.

The suspect had been employed for a time as a custodian, said neighbour Jean-Paul Laurin, who lives across the hall from Johanette.

"I think, 'Is it possible that they are dead?'" he said, shaking his head.

He knew Ayotte for about five years and they often helped each other out with errands. She was a "beautiful" person, he said.

Last week, he watched out his front window as emergency workers removed a body from his friend's apartment.

Laurin said Ayotte and Johanette were good friends. They lived alone, but frequently kept each other's company.

Neighbours said that the police and emergency workers attended the complex on several occasions in relation to incidents at Unit 9.

On Wednesday afternoon, a Gatineau police SWAT team entered the unit and arrested the male tenant on an unrelated assault charge.

Shannon Wiseman holds up traffic at the intersection of Scott Street and Carruthers Avenue yesterday at a rally aimed to improve pedestrian safety in the area.

Rally for safe streets

TIM WIECLAWSKI
tim. wieclawski@metronews.ca

Two years ago, Shannon Wiseman was in a collision at the intersection of Hamilton Street and Armstrong Avenue north, in Mechanicsville.

"It happens to a lot of people, they just expect it to a be four-way stop, because it should be. So people stop on Hamilton Ave. then go expecting the car on Armstrong to stop, but it doesn't," she said.

At the corner of that intersection is a market and park. Wiseman insists it is a heavy pedestrian traffic area especially for children, but it's a dangerous area even for cars.

Despite a playground and pool nearby there is only one "Slow — Children at Play" sign and most of it is hidden behind tree branches.

Yesterday, members of the community activist group ACORN (Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now) marched through Mechanicsville pointing out trouble spots to their ward councillor Christine Leadman and MPP Yasir Naqvi.

The group seeks a four-way stop at the intersection of Carruthers and Lyndale Avenues and better lighting at Larouche Park and on the OC Transpo pathway.

mindset shift

- While traffic studies have concluded further control measures are not warranted, Leadman said there has to be a shift in mindset away from statistics deciding what is warranted toward the needs of the community.

Queensway quick fix

tracey.tong@metronews.ca

A section of Queensway will be closed overnight Saturday as transport ministry workers lift out and replace an overpass using technology that saves money and months of traffic headaches.

With the success of last year's Island Park bridge replacement behind it, the Ministry of Transportation is set to replace a section of the Clyde Avenue bridge in 17 hours overnight Saturday and Sunday morning.

Maitland Avenue and Carling Avenue will be closed overnight with detours in place as of 6 p.m. on Saturday, to reopen by 11 a.m. on Sunday. That's far better than the weeks of traffic complications caused by traditional bridge replacement.

"If you were to replace the bridge using a conventional approach, you would have to close it lane by lane and it would take two to three construction seasons. You can imagine the impact on the travelling public," said Frank Vanderlaan, an area contract engineer with MTO.

The project, which costs $9.6 million, is about $2 million less expensive than conventional replacement.

In the rapid replacement project, the bridges have been pre-built.

Self-propelled modular transporters (SPMT) lift the existing bridge out and over to the staging areas, said Vanderlaan. The SPMT then lifts the new 650-tonne bridge and puts it into place.

Tories address text fee change

Prentice dances around issue

The federal industry minister has stopped just short of threatening cellular companies over plans to charge for every incoming text message, pointedly noting other countries regulate such fees.

Jim Prentice walked a fine line yesterday, saying Ottawa has no immediate intention of intervening in plans by Bell Canada and Telus to start charging customers 15 cents for incoming messages, including unsolicited junk mail. He then noted the European Union is moving to implement regulations for text message fees.

"We don't have a heavy regulatory burden on the cellular industry. That's something that we have tried to maintain in Canada. At the end of the day, consumers do need to be protected," said Prentice, who was here for the Conservative caucus retreat.

"Consumers do need to be protected"

Prentice made it plain last month that he wasn't happy with the fees, to start Aug. 8 for Bell customers and Aug. 24 for Telus subscribers for those whose plans don't include a text message bundle.

Bush orders intelligence reorganization

The White House yesterday unveiled an overhaul of intelligence powers that concentrates power in the national intelligence director and drew criticism from Congress for failing to consult on the changes.

U.S. President George W. Bush approved revising a 1981 executive order to better define the intelligence agencies' roles and responsibilities as well as take into account a 2004 law that created the director of national intelligence job.

The efforts to shore up U.S. intelligence activities follow numerous lapses, including failing to detect the Sept. 11 attacks ahead of time as well as erroneous conclusions about weapons of mass destruction in Iraq.

Even after the position was created, the intelligence community has not been without controversy. Last December it issued a report that questioned Iran's nuclear weapons ambitions despite concerns by some administration hardliners.

The action by Bush provoked bipartisan anger among House lawmakers who said they were not properly consulted or briefed.

Philip Morris buying Rothmans for $2B

CONTROL Philip Morris International said yesterday it agreed to acquire Rothmans for about $2 billion in a deal that would give it total control of Canada's No. 2 cigarette maker.

The deal offers $30 a share for Rothmans, whose sole holding is a 60 per cent stake in cigarette maker Rothmans Benson & Hedges (RBH). Philip Morris already owned 40 per cent of the cigarette maker.

Philip Morris's offer represents almost a 17 per cent premium over Rothmans' 20-day average trading price through July 30.

"Rothmans shareholders will receive a significant cash premium and PMI consolidates its presence in a market that we deem financially attractive and of strategic importance going forward," Philip Morris Chairman and Chief Executive Louis Camilleri said.

Rothmans and RBH said they had paid a $100 million fine and agreed to pay $450 million more over the next 10 years to settle a case after pleading guilty to helping smugglers.

Ramirez headed to the Dodgers

Slugger Manny Ramirez, left, got his wish yesterday, finally freeing himself of the Boston Red Sox, as he was traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers in a three-way deal. Pittsburgh outfielder Jason Bay will head to Boston as part of the trade, while the Pirates received four players in return. Meanwhile the Chicago White Sox acquired the Hall of Fame-bound outfielder Ken Griffey Jr. and cash considerations in exchange for right-handed pitcher Nick Masset and second baseman Danny Richar.

Pettersen a real CFL legend

YorkReport

Marty York

marty.york@metronews.ca

It was 1979 when I first met Leif Pettersen. I was a rookie CFL reporter with The Globe and Mail. He was a lanky receiver with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

After a tough loss on a frigid afternoon, I sat down beside him in the Ticats' locker room to pick his brain. He was chain smoking. He must have gone through 10 cigarettes in 10 minutes as he dissected the game. I was on deadline, but he wouldn't let me leave until he was done.

And I realized then that the man could analyze football. He was a natural for the broadcast booth, with movie-star looks, a reasonable command of the English language and a high-pitched voice that enabled him to hammer home his main points with verbal exclamation marks.

So up to the booth he eventually went. And, at the beginning of what turned out to be an illustrious 18-year broadcasting career (10 more years than he played), Pettersen was teamed with the legendary, late Pat Marsden. Pat took Leif under his wing and made his transition even easier. Somehow, I can see Pat welcoming Leif again today, as the two reunite.

Pettersen died this week at only 57, the victim of an apparent heart attack. What a shocker. He appeared to be in very good shape, was a successful businessman and was never short of friends.

One of his closest was Keith Pelley, his former boss at TSN. Pettersen was the best man at Pelley's wedding. When Pelley became the president of the Toronto Argonauts, he hired Pettersen as a club ambassador and persuaded him to speak to business groups in a bid to sell season tickets. When Pelley quit the Argos last year to become chief of the CTV-Rogers Olympic Consortium, he recommended that Pettersen replace him, sources said, but the Argos' owners chose Michael Clemons instead.

"Leif is one of the most vibrant, one of the most interesting guys I know," Pelley told me when I worked with him and Pettersen on TSN's CFL telecasts last decade. "You ought to try to be more like him. It'd help you."

Well, I couldn't be like Pettersen, even if I tried. Few could. He was too cool. And yet he was also feisty.

He didn't end up liking me very much, either, but I sure got a kick out of him and his style. Even when he challenged me — on the air during live broadcasts — to identify sources I simply couldn't. Even when he challenged me to a post-show brawl outside the studio. (Yes, he really did that.)

Here's hoping he's at peace now.

Sens re-sign Vermette

NHL The Ottawa Senators have re-signed forward Antoine Vermette to a multi-year agreement, the team announced yesterday. Terms of the deal were not disclosed.

Vermette

The 25-year-old Vermette tallied a career-high with 24 goals and 29 assists in addition to 51 penalty minutes in 81 games for the Senators last season. His 56.7 per cent success rate on face-offs ranked sixth in the NHL last year.

Vermette has notched 71 goals, 68 assists and 163 PIM in 297 career games with Ottawa.

Chit-chat censure

Government gives advice on what to say

Don't ask a tourist's age or wage, steer clear of sex and avoid religion: What many Chinese consider idle chit-chat has now become the latest area of censure in Beijing as it prepares for an influx of Olympic visitors.

Posters displayed on bulletin boards in the neighbourhood that includes tourist magnet the Forbidden City, and which will host Olympics boxing events, counsel locals against a wide range of potentially awkward conversation topics with foreigners.

The list of "eight don't asks" was issued by the Dongcheng district Propaganda Department as a guide for locals about how to show proper hospitality, a department spokesman said.

"Don't ask about income or expenses, don't ask about age, don't ask about love life or marriage, don't ask about health, don't ask about someone's home or address, don't ask about personal experience, don't ask about religious beliefs or political views, don't ask what someone does," the Olympics logo stamped poster advises.

Several etiquette guidelines have already been issued in the run-up to the Games, as China prepares to put its best foot forward with a faultless event.

The government has campaigned to curb queue-jumping, spitting, littering and even speaking loudly in public, fearful such behaviour could mar Beijing's image.

"Other than the weather, what else are you supposed to talk about?"

While some said the guidelines may make people feel nervous about chatting with the 500,000 overseas visitors expected in Beijing for the Aug. 8-24 Games, others questioned the need for them in lively discussions on the Internet.

"Other than the weather what else are you supposed to talk about?" asked one blogger on the New York Craiglist website.

"Are there also eight 'don't tell's'?" asked another on the popular Shanghai blog, Shanghaiist (shanghaiist.com.)

"While 'Eight Don't Asks' is a general practice in the States ... I don't understand why Chinese living in China should follow this rather western guideline," wrote "LC" on another English-language site.

Others online defended the list as a way to bridge cultural gaps and avoid confused reactions from visitors to questions some might find too intrusive. REUTERS

Sharapova pulls out of Games

TENNIS World number three Maria Sharapova pulled out of the Beijing Olympics yesterday after an MRI scan on her right shoulder revealed two small tears.

"I'm currently packing up really quick to hop on the plane and head to New York for a second opinion but I wanted to let all of you know first that there's no chance of me competing in Beijing," Sharapova said. REUTERS

I swear by KissMe mascara. I use it almost everyday and it has never smudged on me once. An eyeliner for you to try out is the K-Palette eyeliner — it acts as a 24-hour tattoo so there's a gurantee that it won't smudge. Both are available online at sephora.com and beautymark.ca for $30 to $35.

If you're one to follow the rule of 'wear no white after Labour Day,' then you've got exactly 31 days left. On the other hand, if you like to stand out and be a bit rebellious then here are a couple of items you can mix in and layer with well after Labour Day. Add a bit of interest to your plain white tee with crochet accents and mother or pearl buttons. If you're looking for a casual dress the Gap dress is perfect, wear with gladiator sandals for the summer then with opaque tights for fall. This season's bold eyeshadow shades represent a new, brighter attitude among women.

Brighten those eyes

VERONICA BOODHAN
for Metro Canada

Bright colours are heating up this summer with handbags, shoes and now makeup being offered in more vibrant shades.

"There was a need for a more modern colour palette," explains Lori Taylor, professional artistry relations manager at Smashbox Cosmetics.

Smashbox offers a large selection of these playful eye shadows. Their newest line, Desert Chic, includes colours ranging from neutrals to turquoise.

To find the most flattering colours for you, Taylor recommends basing your choices on eye colour.

"Pick a shade you like but don't contour and highlight. Apply a wash of colour across the lash-line to the natural crease [of the eye]."

While fashion is helping dictate the trends in makeup, bolder eye shadow is representing a new, brighter attitude among women.

"It's bright outside, so be bright! Look at your personal style and go with that," advises Caitlin Callahan, senior artist at MAC Cosmetics.

MAC recently launched the Electro Flash line, which features a bold mix of eye shadow colour.

"I took them on a photo shoot and they are the most versatile products I've used in a long time," says Callahan.

The Electro Flash container is split into two parts. On one side, there is a mix of three colours and one complimenting shade on the other side.

"It's a beautiful, translucent veil that has depth. All together it makes [putting makeup on] easy," she says.

Backstreet Boys are coming back ... to Ottawa this Monday.

Backsteet Boys keep on going

Boy band has been together for 15 years

SANDY CAETANO
sandy.caetano@metronews.ca

Many boy bands of yesteryear have seen their time and whittled away into faded memories of concert programs and t-shirts, likely hidden at the back of the closet.

Though bubble-gum pop band New Kids on the Block have been resurrected, the ever-familiar Backstreet Boys have never left the music scene. It's hard to believe that 15 years have passed since they first stepped into the music world and broke concert sales records.

Even with all hardships such as major health issues, substance abuse and the loss of one member, Kevin Richardson — the Backstreet Boys just keep on going.

in concert

- Backstreet Boys play Scotiabank Place Monday.

"It was a little difficult at first, but we were cool with it. (Kevin) moved on and so have we. We're comfortable with what we do as four and it's still just as strong," Nick Carter tells Metro.

"Competitive spirit that's just in every single one of us, and to be the best that we can be as a team, as a group and musically, we feel that what we stand for is honesty and purity in great music that people love," he says.

Even though the guys — Carter, AJ McLean, Howie Dorough and Brian Littrell — have taken time to get married, start a families and even pursue solo projects they've still managed to work together as a group.

Their last album, Unbreakable (Jive Records), came out last October and carries a lot of what they've always been known for — indelible melodies, catchy hooks and finely crafted three and four part harmonies.

"I think the most challenging part was kind of figuring out who the new Backstreet Boys are ... because that was an issue when Kevin had left the group," says Carter. "I think we kind of doubted ourselves at certain times — but once we realized we were confident, I think that it turned out to be really good and we're excited."

"We are rooting for the New Kids on the Block to succeed. We want them to be successful because we feel that sort of music and what we represent is what this world needs again."
Nick Carter

With all the boy bands out there and those like the New Kids on the Block trying to make a comeback, Carter says the group isn't worried about staying strong.

"Only time will tell, we've been around for 15 years and we really haven't left the scene," he says. "We are rooting for the New Kids on the Block to succeed. We want them to be successful because we feel that sort of music and what we represent is what this world needs again."

As for what's next, the guys plan on hitting the studio following the current tour so look for another album in the next year.

Gavin Rossdale was in Toronto this week as a guest on Canadian Idol.

Gavin Rossdale as music mentor

Ex-Bush member guests on Canadian Idol

JIM REYNO
jim.reyno@metronews.ca

OK, Gavin Rossdale — you're up. And you'd better be good.

"Every time I go sing a vocal, I feel like this is it — everything depends on it," the former Bush frontman says about his singing approach. "I'm in the Cup final every time. If I don't get this right, I'm out. I'm done. I'm gone.

"I like that pressure. I thrive on that kind of pressure. I hope that it comes across when I'm singing; there's a passion in there that comes from that."

Rossdale was in Toronto recently to talk about his appearance on Canadian Idol, his first solo album Wanderlust, and a little bit about the baby he and wife Gwen Stefani are expecting.

Sipping on a self-made green tea, Rossdale is blunt about the pressure he felt to make a successful record. After a multi-platinum, five-album run with Bush, Rossdale took a step back commercially with the hard-edged group Institute.

So now what?

"If I was going to make another record, it really had to connect, or I could be in certain degrees of trouble," Rossdale said. "That's just me being realistic and truthful."

> "If I was going to make another record, it really had to connect, or I could be in certain degrees of trouble."
> Gavin Rossdale

Wanderlust, produced by legendary Canuck Bob Rock, was released June 3 and has surpassed Institute's chart performance.

And here's a good way to ensure better album sales: Rossdale appeared on Canadian Idol this week, mentoring the Top 8 with their acoustic-performance skills, as well as performing his single Love Remains the Same.

"I thought it was intriguing," Rossdale said about the idea of appearing on Idol. "My first question was, 'What's the viewership?' And they said, 'One in every two English-speaking Canadians watches it.'

"I was like, 'I'd love to do it.'"

The 42-year-old London native said he was impressed with the finalists' dedication. "You didn't get the sense that it wasn't about the fame, you got the sense that it was about music for them," Rossdale said. "A lot of people nowadays, being famous is probably the No. 1 career desire.

"They all really cared about the songs, really cared about singing them well, and doing the best that they could do. That's what I liked about it."

When asked whether more musicians were embracing the Idol phenomenon, Rossdale wasn't sure.

"I'm definitely sure it's been embraced by the public," he said. "The public couldn't give a f—k how someone comes about — they're just really happy to hear people's stories …

"To me, it just shows that — wow — if everyone who's good could have marketing — imagine what would happen!"

As for his own marketing, Rossdale said an extensive tour is on hold for a few months, to give the album a chance to gain momentum. Also: "I'm about to have another baby. It's kind of cool, because it's like complete chaos. And I think life is richer when it's full of chaos. The idea of having an ordered, simple life is just not for me."

Rossdale and Stefani are expecting their second child by the end of the summer. Their son Kingston, was born in 2006. No word on whether Kingston will have a little brother or sister.

"I don't know," Rossdale said. "We're going to go for the surprise."

Billy Talent takes on MS

SoundCheck

Alan Cross
alan@ongoinghistory.com

Billy Talent drummer Aaron Solowoniuk is in a good place. The band, fresh from celebrating their 15th anniversary, has just returned from an invigorating 2 ½ week swing through Germany, Finland, Norway, Russia and Poland that has left everyone in the group feeling great.

"We had sold 400 albums in all of Poland, yet 800 people came to see our show. Maybe it had something to do with my last name," he says with a quiet smile.

After selling more than 600,000 copies of their first two albums, Billy Talent has earned the right to take some time recording their next CD. At this moment, though, demos are being assembled, producers are being considered, studios are being scouted and the group is in the process of finding a building to serve as the new BT HQ. And while that third record won't be ready until next spring, Aaron let it slip that fans will be rewarded with a new song called Turn Your Back in the fall.

Then there's F.U.M.S., Billy Talent's crusade against multiple sclerosis, a disease that's on Aaron's mind every day because he's had to live with it himself for more than a decade. Thanks to three weekly injections of a hideously expensive drug, Aaron's MS is under control. Aaron realizes he's blessedly lucky, which is why he and the band are behind the MS Society of Canada's Scholarship Program. It provides post-secondary education support to young adults 25 and under with MS or those who have a parent living with the disease.

"My goal for this program," he says, "is for young people to have the opportunity to follow their dreams, regardless of the presence of MS in their lives."

Next Friday's Second Annual F.U.M.S. Open in Mississauga, will see more than 100 golfers — including some of BT's musician friends — is expected to raise at least $25,000.

This year, 80 scholarships valued at nearly $80,000 are being distributed to students across the country. In a few weeks, some of the essays written by scholarship winners will be posted at mssociety.ca/scholarship. You can also make a donation at the site.

"These kids write things that bring tears to my eyes," says Aaron. "To be able to help them is amazing. I want to keep this up until there's a cure."

Caution: 'Mummy on the loose!'

STEVE GOW

The Mummy: Tomb of the Dragon Emperor
Director: Rob Cohen
Stars: Brendan Fraser, Maria Bello, Jet Li
Classification: PG
Rating:

The Mummy: Tomb of the Dragon Emperor features some crazy visual effects.

REVIEW For someone who keeps saying he "really hates mummies," Brendan Fraser sure keeps coming back to them a lot. If he just listened to his character's own empty rantings of detest, maybe he (and we) would've been much better off.

In this third offering of the successful franchise, adventurer Rick O'Connell returns to action taking his wife (Maria Bello sporting a spotty British accent) to China to deliver a legendary diamond.

There, he learns his son (Luke Ford) dug up the tomb of evil Emperor Han (Jet Li) and … well, to spare you the contrived plot details, just assume that blood is spilt, the Emperor awakens and as Rick O'Connell exclaims, "There's a mummy on the loose!"

Now, nobody should expect perfection out of this type of popcorn movie, but at least give us a reasonable story and a shred of intelligent dialogue.

Here, lines are so baseless, expository and unfunny that when a yak yaks on one character, he declares "the yak yakked." Wasn't that a throwaway line from Abbott & Costello Meet the Mummy?

Sure, there are plenty of crazy visual effects of warriors, a dragon and even yetis (what, no mid-20th century goblins?) but they only serve to mildly distract from a tedious, laboured storyline.

At Comic-Con in San Diego recently, Fraser described this film as a "love story."

Well, this is as much a love story as There Will Be Blood is a meditation on dairy products.

And basically, that's why this movie stinks — a clear lack of focus, direction and yes, even "love" leaves this mummy as thrilling as a 2,000-year-old bag of bones.

Swing, and a miss: Swing Vote a disappointment

ADAM NAYMAN

Swing vote
Director: Joshua Michael Stern
Stars: Kevin Costner, Dennis Hopper
Classification: PG
Rating:

REVIEW Earnest (Bud) Johnson — an affable small-town screwup who accidentally gets the chance to determine the outcome of the U.S. presidential election — is pretty much the prototypical Kevin Costner role: the aw-shucks messiah whose basic decency wins the day.

Swing Vote feels very much like a vanity project, but unlike The Postman or Open Range, Costner didn't write or direct (he did produce).

However, like The Postman and Open Range, the film is a debacle: a lazy attempt at a contemporary Frank Capra fable that takes the tone of a condescending civics lesson.

It's a bad sign when beer-swilling layabout Bud, coerced to cast his vote by his implausibly precocious 10-year old daughter (poised newcomer Madeline Carroll) gets cold-cocked by an overhanging "remember to vote" sign: nothing like literally being smacked by a metaphor (for him, or for us).

Kevin Costner

Things actually get worse from there, as undecided voter Bud becomes an overnight celebrity and courted by incumbent president Kelsey Grammer and Democratic challenger Dennis Hopper.

The candidates are wittily cast (arch-Republican Sideshow Bob vs. The Easy Rider himself) but the roles are so bland that the joke gets muffled; the satirical jibes at their mutual willingness to flip-flop ideologies on Bud's whims are similarly toothless.

Bud's eventual political awakening (once again dully literalized by having his daughter forcibly rouse him out of bed at regular intervals) is so perfunctory that it's insulting.

After one montage of diligent study with his daughter (and, of course, a sexy TV newswoman), he emerges as an expert on the issues and leads a presidential debate (complete with standard-issue halting Costner monologue).

At which point, director Joshua Michael Stern hurriedly cuts away from the discussion. After all, we can't have any actual politics in our political comedy, can we?

When Did You Last See Your Father
Director: Anand Tucker
Stars: Jim Broadbent, Colin Firth
Classification: PG
Rating:

REVIEW If it's verbose title doesn't dissuade audiences from seeing it, When Did You Last See Your Father may be one of the summer's most rewarding cinema experiences.

When Arthur Morrison (Jim Broadbent) is diagnosed with terminal cancer, his resentful son Blake (Colin Firth) returns to the family home, initiating a series of flashbacks of frustrating and embarrassing encounters.

While struggling with the suspicion that his dad had a family with another woman, Blake attempts to make sense of a troubled life-long relationship.

Based on author Blake Morrison's popular memoir, this film balances sentimentality and earnestness in good measure.

Anand Tucker provides solid direction with an understated tone and uses mirrors in an alluring way as if to metaphorically show us that our reflection is not always what it appears.

Meanwhile, the script raises interesting questions about the notion that people are entitled to keep some secrets private.

But the true revelation here is the always-sensational Jim Broadbent.

The Dark Knight

REVIEW The follow-up to Batman Begins takes the caped crusader down a darker path. When the psychopathic villain The Joker (played by the late Heath Ledger) terrorizes Gotham City, Batman (Christian Bale) is tangled in a moral struggle. Christopher Nolan creates a stunning visual masterpiece and captures mesmerizing performances by Bale and Ledger.

Step Brothers

REVIEW Ferrell re-teams with his Talladega Nights co-star John C. Reilly to play a middle-aged slacker who must cope with his new 40-something step brother. Every bit immature equals, the siblings square off like tantrum-filled toddlers. It's a thin story to hang jokes on but part of the reason it works is because you don't know where the script ends and the improvisation begins..

Steve Gow/Metro Canada

Mamma Mia!

REVIEW The first 20 minutes are taken up with arrivals on a Greek island where Sophie (Amanda Seyfried) is getting married at the hotel run by Donna (Meryl Streep), her hippie mother. Based on the musical that made ABBA even more omnipresent, it's the story of Sophie's search for her father, after learning he could have been one of three men.

Sisterhood reunites

NED EHRBAR
for Metro Canada

FEATURE Ask the four stars of The Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants 2 about what it was like filming the sequel, and they immediately mention a moped accident — and whose fault it was.

"It was Amber's fault," America Ferrera insists.

"Right," Amber Tamblyn says. "It was my fault. But Blake hit the back of everybody."

"But she wouldn't have if you didn't stop," Ferrera responds. Within seconds, all four actresses are talking at once, showing off the very real bond they've developed.

"At the end of the day I want to go to dinner, I want to watch a movie. I don't want to go to a club and not wear panties."
Blake Lively on the Hollywood lifestyle

GETTY IMAGES

Alexis Bledel returns alongside America Ferrera, Amber Tamblyn and Blake Lively in the The Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants 2.

The film, in theatres Aug. 6, reunites Ferrera, Tamblyn, Blake Lively and Alexis Bledel, who first brought the characters from Ann Bashares' best-selling book series to life in 2005.

Part two crams the next three books in the series into one movie, but the bond between the main characters remains the heart of the film.

The four young actresses, all film and TV stars in their own rights, have stayed grounded despite the allure of the Young Hollywood culture.

"At the end of the day of work, I want to go to dinner, I want to watch a movie," says Lively. "I don't want to go to a club and not wear panties."

Of course, it's hard to go too crazy when you have friends watching out for you. "If any of us dared to be ridiculous, we would get a lot of phone calls," Ferrera says.

Tamblyn agrees: "From each other, saying, 'What were you doing? You're grounded.'"

"What I love about this movie is that it gives young women an example of strong female relationships," Ferrera says.

She hopes to see more films portraying women "supporting each other instead of tearing each other down."

Now, about that moped accident. "It was very dramatic," Tamblyn explains. "Great for a first day of shooting." Ferrera agrees: But Tamblyn can't help getting a joke in. "It was good because I got to make fun of them on crutches," she says, smiling slyly.

"She would take our crutches, too," Lively says. And with that, they're off again, all four talking at once. Just like real friends.

Who wears the pants?

- The titular trousers, which worked so much magic in the first film, take a back seat in the sequel. This time around, the focus is on the girls themselves and their individual journeys into adulthood.

So why the shift away from the pants?

"It doesn't matter at that point," says Bledel.

"I think they've grown out of it."

While the pants may be fading away, the sisterhood remains strong.

Pineapple Express: 'A weed action movie'

STEVE GOW
for Metro Canada

FEATURE To sum up Pineapple Express, Seth Rogen simply has to think back to what star producer Judd Apatow suggested he and writing partner Evan Goldberg tackle next after penning surprise hit Superbad: "A weed action movie."

For those who are familiar with the Vancouver-born actor/writer, it's not totally out of character.

"Me and Evan thought that could be rad," Rogen admitted recently in Los Angeles.

"Basically, we started thinking if we could make a movie that was kind of a weed movie and an action movie and (had) a real friendship story to it, that would be our favorite movie ever."

Hitting theatres next Friday, the comedy tells the tale of Dale (Rogen), a slothful process server who spins into weed-enhanced panic after witnessing a murder.

Seth Rogen's influence for Pineapple Express came from '80s action films like Lethal Weapon and Die Hard.

In desperation, Dale seeks refuge with his dope dealer Saul (James Franco), but the two unlikely companions are soon being chased by crooked cops, henchmen and a ridiculous mid-level dealer (Danny McBride).

Now, Rogen may have perfected the innocent, stoner type with his turn in last summer's hit Knocked Up, but he insists Dale is a far cry from playing pot-smoker-turned-proud papa Ben Stone.

"To me, the fact that a character smokes weed isn't really what I hang my hat on necessarily. I mean, Arthur and James Bond aren't the same because they both drink," reasons Rogen.

"To me, they're very different guys."

Besides, both Rogen and Goldberg set out to make an action movie; not a romantic comedy a la Knocked Up.

Both were huge fans of '80s action hits like Lethal Weapon, Die Hard and basically "anything with Brian Bosworth in it."

To make it authentic, Rogen knew they had to get physical and even take on a few stunts.

"Ya, we hurt ourselves. We're all friends. It's very bonding to beat the crap out of each other."
Seth Rogen on doing the film's stunts

"Ya, we hurt ourselves," brags Rogen. "Franco cracked his face open; McBride cracked the back of his head open" — resulting in a concussion, thanks in part to Franco, who struck McBride with a water-filled bong.

"We're all friends. It's very bonding to beat the crap out of each other," laughs Rogen.

"(This film was) very physical; you're in somewhat homoerotic positions; lots of me on Danny's back. I rode Danny's back for two days."

Chimes in McBride: "Sometimes it wasn't even during the movie."

Look for a review of Pineapple Express on Wednesday.

'Maria' judge terminated

Simon Lee, a longtime associate of internationally renowned composer Andrew Lloyd Webber, has been fired as musical supervisor of the upcoming Toronto production of The Sound of Music.

News of the termination came just days after Lee, 46, was charged with forcible confinement and assault following a Sunday morning incident with a 24-year-old man at a Yorkville hotel.

A statement issued by London public relations firm Brown Lloyd Jameson on behalf of Lloyd Webber's The Really Useful Group Ltd., stated: "Simon is a very talented person who is extremely important to us. However, on this occasion we felt it was necessary to seek the termination of his engagement on The Sound of Music in Toronto. The alleged events are subject to legal proceedings and, therefore, we can't comment further."

Mirvish Productions spokesperson John Karastamatis said the decision to remove Lee will have no impact on the Toronto production.

Luke Perry on Law & Order

Former Beverly Hills, 90210 star Luke Perry has signed on to join the cast of Law & Order: SVU after rejecting an offer to reprise his role in the hit TV series, imdb.com reports.

Perry's former castmates Tori Spelling, Jennie Garth and Shannen Doherty have signed up to appear in the forthcoming spin-off series.

But the 41-year-old actor, who has enjoyed limited success since leaving the show in 1995, has instead signed on to appear in the criminal drama's season premiere.

return

- According to celebrity blog PerezHilton.com, Perry will couple with Bowen to play a father accused of abusing their foster child.
- Perry's episode is set to air this September.

The hour-long special will also feature guest appearances by Roseanne star Sara Gilbert and Lost actress Julie Bowen.

Just last month, the actor explained his decision not to take part in the show.

"I can't re-imagine it currently. It's just not something that I've thought about to be quite honest, I don't see it happening," Perry said.

The Habit of recording

KIM MANNIX VERMETTE
for Metro Ottawa

They are calling it an ET party, not because the three songs they're celebrating have anything to do with alien creatures, but because they're an "extended tease" of what The Habit have in store for their upcoming album, which they hope to record this fall.

And while he won't go as far as saying the songs are out of this world, Darren Rogers — one of The Habit's three vocalists — is excited about them.

"We really liked how the songs sounded live off the floor, and we've undergone some line-up changes and have some new members who are really contributing to our sound, so we wanted to get some of our new songs out to be listened to," he says.

The virtual teaser has been released on the band's MySpace site, and is made up of three of seven songs The Habit recently recorded in one productive day at Ottawa's Little Bullhorn studio.

Recording live can be a challenge for any band, but perhaps even more so when you have a big collective to accommodate. Rogers says he and his seven bandmates — Agatha Alstrom, Trevor Curtis, Warren Kidd, Garett Pratt, Michael Stevenson, Dennis Stuebing and Dan Voltan — have become comfortable crowding into small spaces, where the sound bleeds into one another's microphones.

"We started playing at friend's places, or small clubs, and we rehearse here. All of us!" laughs Rogers, gesturing to the cozy living room of his Centretown apartment.

"There is a kind of magic that elevates things when you play live, and that's much harder to achieve when you record track by track, but I think these recordings capture a bit more of our live energy."

The first track is actually an unexpected cover of Rihanna's Don't Stop The Music, performed in The Habit's signature style, which incorporates multiple vocalists, guitars, drums, and violins.

Their sound is a melange of pop, funk, folk, and electronica, with bold instrumentation, which earned much acclaim on their last studio release — 2007's The Sacred and the Profane. But Rogers admits being hard to define can be a blessing and a curse.

"It's flattering to feel like an original act, but at the same time you kind of think if we can't even fit into a category we have no chance of being commercially successful," he says.

"All we try to do is go with the feeling of our music, and put on an energetic feel good show every time."

The Habit play at Zaphod's 27 York Street, tonight at 9 with guest Tara Holloway. Tickets are $8.

Outdoor films get lifeline

GetOutThere

Kim Mannix Vermette
kim.mannixvermette@metronews.ca

It started as the first outdoor movie festival in Ottawa. And though its future was uncertain earlier this year, Centretown Movies is going strong for another season.

"It's important to have the festival because it really brings a sense of community to the park. It's kind of like a warm, small-town atmosphere," says coordinator Eric Espig.

Certainly there is something wholesome and neighbourly about hundreds of downtown citizens gathering their kids, friends or pets and touting lawn chairs or blankets to the plush grass at Dundonald Park to take in a film.

For seven seasons, the festival set up in various downtown spaces, making its home at Dundonald Park for the past few years. But as Espig explains, past organizers were ready to move on and that meant — for the festival to survive — a new group of volunteers had to step up.

Luckily a devoted group of committee organizers, in partnership with the Centretown Citizens Ottawa Corporation, as well as a team of movie night volunteers, came to rescue.

As in past years, this year's line-up boasts a diverse mix of pics, including kooky comedies, thoughtful dramas and recent blockbusters.

The festival buys screening rights to each of the films, which generally costs between $200 and $300, but Espig says so far this year they've been lucky to recoup most of the costs through the pass-the-hat system on film nights.

This year organizers are also partnering with community charities and agencies, who pay for the screening rights of a film that ties in with their mandate, then collect whatever proceeds are made during the show. Tonight Engineers Without Borders is hosting a screening of The Constant Gardner.

"It's important to have the festival because it really brings a sense of community to the park. It's kind of like a warm, small-town atmosphere,"
Eric Espig

A short film from a local independent filmmaker precedes each screening. It's a great way for local talent to get the attention of the up to 300 people who come out to the shows each night.

"The park is a lot bigger than it seems, and we have been really happy with the attendance so far this year," says Espig. "If you haven't come out yet, it's really a great and unique way to enjoy a movie, and the beautiful city."

Centretown Movies run Fridays and Saturdays until August 16 at 9 p.m. in Dundonald Park, at Somerset and Lyon. Admission is pay-what-you-can. For schedule information visit centretownmovies.org.

Ryan, Rachel spark talk of reunion

RELATIONSHIPS Actors Ryan Gosling and Rachel McAdams have sparked speculation they are a couple again, after they were spotted going home together after the actor's recent DJ debut, imdb.com reports.

The former couple met on the set of the 2004 movie The Notebook, and enjoyed a two-year relationship until they split last year.

But the pair fuelled rumours of a reunion after they left Gosling's DJ set at Hollywood's Green Door club together.

Gosling was allegedly heartbroken by the split, previously branding McAdams as "one of the great loves of my life."

He added that his relationship was nothing like that of his Notebook character's union, saying: "Rachel and my love story is a hell of a lot more romantic than that."

Sarah's united front

RELATIONSHIPS Sarah Jessica Parker and husband Matthew Broderick put up a united front on a night out in New York following allegations he had an affair with a 25-year-old woman, the Daily Mail reports.

The couple emerged from a Midtown restaurant Wednesday night, with Broderick's arm wrapped around his wife as they smiled at photographers.

It's the first time the pair, who have been married for 11 years, have been seen together since a magazine claimed he had a three-month relationship with another woman while she was filming the Sex and the City movie.

One source defended the couple, saying: "They have never had a conventional marriage, but it works for the two of them ... They are so private and hate all this silly gossip."

Katherine not having kids yet

CONTROVERSY Kids for actress Katherine Heigl and new husband Josh Kelley? Not so fast, People.com reports.

"It's nothing that we're talking about right now," Lucas said. "We're pretty busy."

Kelley, 28, spent the summer vacationing with Heigl, 29, and touring. Heigl said in March she would like to have children sooner than Kelley — but she agreed that wasting their current career opportunities would be "foolish."

Britney dating staffer?

RELATIONSHIPS Britney Spears is reportedly dating her bodyguard, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The pop star has been spending nearly every day with former soldier Lee, who has been working full-time for her for six months, and he has even started sleeping at her Los Angeles home.

"Britney and Lee hit it off immediately," a source said. "He is her perfect type. She loves guys who work out and he is in great shape from his days serving in the Israeli Army. He also has a few tattoos, which she loves. They've spent so much time together that one thing led to another and their relationship became physical."

The pair have been on holiday in Mexico together and Lee has been seen dancing around a hotel swimming pool with Spears.

"They've been having a great time. Lee's put a smile on her face," the source added to Britain's The Sun newspaper.

Ex-hubby Tommy proposes to me daily, Pam says

RELATIONSHIPS Pamela Anderson is said to face a love dilemma every day as her ex-husband Tommy Lee is constantly asking her to marry him, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The former Baywatch star was married to the Motley Crue rocker for three years until they split in 1998. But despite the split, the pair have been spending a lot of time together recently and are now co-habiting for the sake of their two sons Dylan, 10 and Brandon, 12.

However, it is believed that Lee wants the four of them to be a proper family again, and Anderson has hinted that one day, she might just accept his proposal.

"Tommy asks me to marry him every day," she says. "It's very confusing. Marriage is romantic and I get swept up easily."

After two short-lived unions to Kid Rock and film producer Rick Salomon, Anderson admits her heart has always belonged to Lee.

"Tommy is the love of my life. It's a very deep love that grows in all sorts of unexpected ways. It's been the one relationship that's challenged me to the core," she says.

"This makes no sense at all..."

by Joe O'Neill

Wyclef Jean. It's awful when the bling bling bring brings a lawsuit.

Ryan Gosling and Rachel McAdams together again? I hope it's not true. To me, the seminal lyric in SNL's classic digital short Lazy Sunday is "I love these cupcakes like McAdams loves Gosling." It takes me back to that time of innocence that was 2005, when the Canadian actors' love was in its first blushing bloom. To attempt to recreate the magic that was late 2005 will more than likely result in an odour not unlike that which is created by reheating cabbage.

Mary-Kate Olsen had to run in emotional distress when watching Heath Ledger's performance in The Dark Knight? Good, now she has some idea of the excruciating pain she helped inflict on millions through her performance in Full House, except in that case projectile vomiting was also usually involved.

Yeah, Avril Lavigne, there's nothing more punk than back-up dancers. Joe Strummer used to go on and on about the importance of back-up dancers and what colour hair they should have.

The Pistols actually broke up after the infamous Winterland Theater concert following an argument over which of the Ernest Flatt dancers they should hire away from the Carol Burnett Show. That was so punk.
